Description Love Notes by Heather Gunter

How do you cope when the people you care for hurt you the most? When the way you feel on the outside, smothers you on the inside. And when you are left to face your demons alone, will you learn that only you have the power to overcome them?

Charlie has never had it easy. Between the constant moving and the incessant fat comments and jokes from her father, her self-worth is nonexistent. Her reflection in the mirror shows her nothing but a plain Jane. Music is the only thing that keeps her sanity in check.

Charlie catches the eye of the town star quarterback, Maverick. With her curves, her brunette hair, and the voice of an angel, Maverick has never met anyone like her. Everything that is different about Charlie just makes Maverick like her more. Unfortunately, Charlie doesn't see it herself.

Proving it to her may seem harder than he thinks, especially when tragedy strikes and tears them apart.

Now standing on her own two feet she may finally learn exactly who she is, what's she's capable of and how very un plain Jane she really is.

Love it!! by Hannah1733

Absolutely love it! So romantic!!

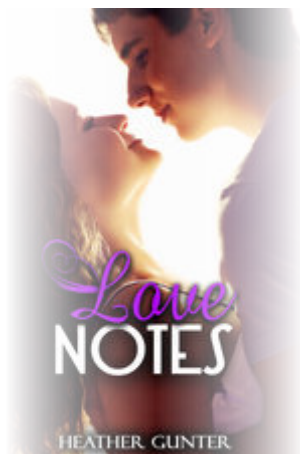

Poor work by tam4ny

The characters had no depth whatsoever. The author may find it hard to realize, but when characters are written in terms of 1pov, they do not directly say what's on their mind and go on spouting facts about themselves.

Words were extremely overused and it felt like I was hearing the story from a wall rather than a person that had been through so much. The point of views kept switching so quickly that I honestly gave up caring on what was going on.

It's too fast-paced and immature. If Charlie was so insecure and so damaged from the bullying she received from her family, she certainly didn't seem like it. She was just another girl that didn't feel right about herself. Yes, I understand that she's a plain jane. So what? Why is that supposed to make me care? I wish there was more thought put into that.

One last thing. Her immediate close friendship with Tori was unrealistic. Their heartfelt conversations were too direct and everything they said to one another that they claimed to be funny really really wasn't. In fact, I don't think I cracked a smile while reading this. It felt like it was a sixth graders work rather than an adults.
